SENTENCE COMING:

'No contest' plea in hit-and-run death caused by motorhome last year

By Steve Marschke
News-Ledger Editor

A Rio Linda man has pled "no contest" to the hit and run accident which killed a man in a West Sacramento store parking lot last November.

Joshua Neil Anthon, 32, faces four years in state prison, a spokesperson from the Yolo District Attorney's office told the News-Ledger. He will receive his sentence on Dec. 12.

The accident happened in a parking lot on the 900-block of Sacramento Avenue at about 9:40 p.m. on Nov. 5, 2013. Police responded to find that 55-year old Michael Ray Anderson had been hit and killed by a motorhome occupied by an unidentified man and woman. The RV had left the scene.

Investigators said shortly afterward that they believe that Anderson and at least one of the suspects had been involved in an argument before the RV hit Anderson.

Surveillance tapes inside a store at the scene showed images of both the suspects and their RV. The images were widely distributed during a manhunt for the pair in the RV.

Two days after the accident, Anthon and the woman who had been in the RV, 34-year old Pamela Nicole McKee, separately turned themselves in to police.

The Yolo County District Attorney's office "did not find sufficient evidence to file charges against the female suspect," the D.A.'s office told the News-Ledger.

$2.6 million lottery ticket sold at West Sac market

Some lucky person picked five out of six numbers in California's Powerball jackpot draw last Wednesday night, and now has a ticket worth $2.64 million.

The winner did not immediately come forward.

The ticket was sold at the ARCO AM/PM market, 847 W. Harbor Boulevard in West Sacramento. The six numbers drawn in the contest were 25, 28, 48, 57, 59 and 16. Anyone matching all six numbers would have won $142 million.

The market will earn over $13,000 for selling the $2.64 million ticket.

I-80 freeway accident kills West Sac man on rainy Halloween night

A West Sacramento man died in a multi-car crash following a Halloween party.

According to the CHP and local media reports, 24-year old Shane Holland was a passenger in a car involved in a crash about 1:25 a.m. on Saturday morning, at westbound I-80 near Roseville.

He was a passenger in a car that was part of a ride-share service called "Lyft."

Driver Shanti Adhikari was driving Holland and another passenger in rainy conditions. Adhikari swerved his Camry to avoid a stalled Kia - which had been hit by another car earlier - but lost control of the Camry, spun out and hit a tree. Holland died immediately; the other two in the car are reported to be recovering from their injuries.

The Kia had apparently been rear-ended by an unknown vehicle, causing it to spin out and stall in the middle lanes. The other car in that incident was not immediately located.

After the Camry crashed, the Kia's driver tried to push his car off the road, but it was hit again by a pickup truck or SUV, and the driver was knocked to the ground. The pickup's driver and a truck driver helped get those cars to the side of the road, and the Kia's driver drove himself to the hospital for treatment for head injuries.

Election results will be online at WestSac.com

The News-Ledger went to press yesterday before the election returns came in.

We'll post the results of the local races (mayor, school board and city council) today at our website, www.WestSac.com.

The results will also, of course, be reported in next week's News-Ledger.

Wrecking ball helps make way for future of West Sac riverfront Demolition is underway on the former CEMEX cement silos in West Sacramento's Pioneer Bluff area.

That region is a corridor of riverfront along South River Road north of the freeway. The former heavy-industrial area is now zoned for mixed-use urban development. The new uses are expected to come in whenever the market starts to drive them.

Pioneer Bluff is expected to benefit from a couple of new bridges -- one just about completed, connecting South River Road across the barge canal, and the other slated for a future date across the Sacramento River to land near Broadway.

North Star Demolition and Remediation is managing the demolition of the 50-year old silos off South River Road.

Demolition kicked off with a press conference Tuesday morning, Oct. 28.

A wrecking ball begins the job of taking down the silos north of the freeway along West Sac's riverfront. Demolition is expected to take 8-10 weeks.

The Central Valley, from Red Bluff through Bakersfield, is part of the 4000 mile Pacific Flyway, the route taken by migrating birds from Alaska to Patagonia (at the southern end of South America). This time of year our local region gets visited by a huge influx of Aleutian Geese, Snow Geese, White Fronted Geese, and Bufflehead and Northern Pintails ducks, to name just a few, so this is the best time to grab your cameras and head out to your local wetlands areas.

West Sac man was on doomed transport

Note: This past week, longtime West Sacramento resident Tony Frates passed away at the age of 99. He was still in good health until just a few weeks before his death and his was a life very well-lived.

Tony was bright and interesting and always looked and acted about 20 years younger than his age. He also happened to somehow live through one of the most tragic events of World War II, the sinking of the troop transport ship Leopoldville. He was a good and decent man and a fine example of America's Greatest Generation, and below is the interview I did with him about those long ago days, reprinted in his memory.

On Christmas Eve, 1944, in five-foot high seas in the English Channel about six miles north of the French city of Cherbourg, a single torpedo from a German U-boat exploded into the starboard aft hold of the crowded Belgian transport ship Leopoldville, which was jam-packed with 2,235 Allied reinforcements headed for the Battle of the Bulge.

The crippled ship immediately began taking on water and because of on-shore holiday celebrations, rescue craft were slow in coming to its aid. By the time the Leopoldville finally sank, 400 American soldiers were dead from the initial explosion and subsequent fires, and another 400 were to die from injuries, drowning, and hypothermia from the 48-degree seawater.

The huge loss of life proved extremely embarrassing to the governments of America, France, England, and Belgium, and many families of victims were never fully informed of the details about the Christmas Eve deaths of their sons.

But one person who knows exactly what happened on that long-ago tragic afternoon and night is West Sacramento's Tony Frates, who has lived in the same house on Maryland Avenue for the past 50 years. The reason Tony is so knowledgeable about one of the worst maritime disasters of World War Two is simple -- he was there.

"My unit had been stationed in Southampton, England for about a month," recalled Tony, "when we suddenly got orders to get on board the Leopoldville and head for France. We didn't know it at the time, but we were needed to help keep thousands of German soldiers pinned down against the sea so they couldn't do any more damage to the invasion forces."

Tony had boarded the Leopoldville early in the morning and it was late-afternoon when the deadly torpedo struck.

"It hit the back end of the ship under the water line," remembered Tony, "and it was a very loud explosion. It was winter time, and it was pretty cold up on deck, so a lot of the guys were down inside the ship when the thing blew up. Unfortunately, almost everyone who was near the explosion was killed instantly. It also knocked out all the staircases, so even those who were still alive couldn't get out."

When it became obvious that the Leopoldville was going to sink, Tony and his friends, who had been lucky enough to be up on deck when the torpedo struck, began to go over their options for getting off the ship alive.

"Some of the lifeboats didn't work," said Tony, "and the Belgian crew, which was really made up of a number of different nationalities, were the only ones who knew what to do, but they were also some of the first people off the ship, so finally everyone just had to decide for themselves what they were going to do. Three of my best friends decided to go down towards where the ship was sinking to try and float one of the remaining lifeboats, but I went up to the front where I thought I might be able to jump on board a British destroyer (the HMS Brilliant) that had just arrived and tied up alongside us. I tried to get my friends to go with me, but they wouldn't come, and when they did get their lifeboat floated, it ended up getting crushed between the two ships and tragically, all three of them died."

Tony spotted an old rope hanging down from the side of the Leopoldville which had been used to secure a departed lifeboat and he quickly grabbed it.

"I decided to use the rope to help me swing from the Leopoldville to the British destroyer," said Tony, "but the choppy seas kept pushing one ship way up and the other one way down. While I waited for my best chance, I made sure the rope was secured real good to the Leopoldville, and then I finally held the rope as tight as I could and swung out as far as I could towards the British destroyer. Even though I was a pretty good swimmer back then,

I definitely didn't want to fall down into that really cold water between the two huge ships where so many soldiers were getting crushed to death. Anyway, I was lucky enough to make it all the way across and as soon as I fell down on the deck of the British destroyer, the crew quickly grabbed me and got me safely down inside the ship."

"At almost the exact time Tony was going through all this," remembered Tony's wife, Mildred, who has been happily married to Tony for more than 50 years, "I was safe at church celebrating the holidays. And he never mentioned it in a single one of his letters, either. I didn't find out about it until he came home almost a year later."

"We were told by our officers not to talk to anyone about it," said Tony, "and it wasn't long before those of us who had survived were given new weapons and equipment and sent right up to the front lines. We dug in on hard, cold, snow-covered ground and we were constantly getting shelled by big German guns, but it was still awfully good to be back on land again."

After the war, Tony returned to West Sacramento and quietly began what turned out to be a very successful 41-year career in printing. He and Mildred have two children, Robert and Susan. Their third child, Jane Marie, died of meningitis at the age of five. Tony and Mildred also have three grandchildren.

Obituary

Anthony John Frates

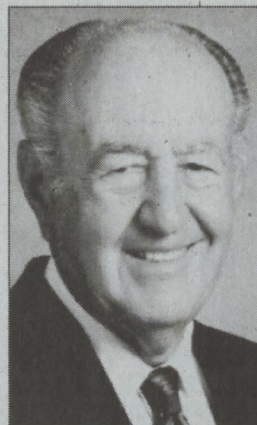

Anthony John "Tony" Frates passed away in Stockton on October 30, 2014, at the age of 99. He was born in Bryte to John and Eva (Fernandez) Frates on August 23, 1915, and spent almost all of his life in the area now known as West Sacramento.

He graduated from Woodland High School, and in 1937 began work at the Office of State Printing, from which he retired as a Bookbinder in 1979.

He served in the Army as a Staff Sergeant during World War II. He survived the sinking of the troop ship Leopoldville in the English Channel, by a German torpedo, on Christmas Eve 1944 - a tragedy that killed 762 soldiers. After that his infantry division, the 66th Panther, was assigned to contain the German submarine bases on the West coast of France.

He was always active, and was a talented baseball player in his youth. He took up golf at the age of 50, and played until he was 92.

During his long and remarkable life, he met baseball great Babe Ruth, and aviation pioneers Charles Lindbergh and Douglas "Wrong Way" Corrigan. He ice skated with Olympic gold medalist Dick Button, when Button visited an ice rink in West Sacramento.

Tony was preceded in death by his parents, his sister Helen Dupont, his daughter Jane, and by Mildred, his beloved wife of 71 years.

He is survived by his son Bob Frates (Leslie) of Hayward; daughter Susan Boucher (Jeff) of Stockton; and grandchildren Leland Frates, Bridget Boucher and Courtney Hoggie (Chance).

BIRDS: migrating now from page one

The Pacific Flyway contains 60 percent of the habitat critical to wintering waterfowl in the region – and our area is ranked Number 2 on the list of the 25 most important and threatened waterfowl habitats in the entire continent. So, being able to see these magnificent birds is a real treat and everyone should take advantage of the opportunity to see them.

Other migratory birds seen around this time of year include the American Wigeon, Cinnamon Teal ducks, Canvasback ducks, and the American Coot. Keep in mind, too, that the Berryessa Snow Mountain region is home to the second largest wintering population of Bald Eagles in the country.

Snow Geese (Chen caerulescens) are sometimes also referred to as "Blue Geese" because there are two color morphs: the all-white version, and a blue-grey version. It is the white morph that is most common in this region. They're easily identifiable: an all-white body and wings with black wing tips. They also have rosy feet and legs, and pink bills with black tomia (the cutting edges of the bill). Snow Geese fly, eat and nest in large gatherings, and their numbers are on the rise (increasing about 5% each year according to some studies). They like to forage on fall grain – including wheat and rice – when they can find it.

The White Fronted Goose (Anser albifrons), is another species of goose that winters here in our area in large

Oct. 29, 6:34 a.m.

A man reported that his locked car had been burglarized while parked on the 1200-block of Harbor Boulevard. Gone were several duffel bags, "one bag of which contained a Smith & Wesson 9mm handgun."

Oct. 29, 1:30 p.m.

A Citrus Street resident reported his home had been burglarized. Someone stole a lock box containing some cash, for a total loss of about $100.

Oct. 29, 3 p.m.

An Orchard Way woman told police that her ex-boyfriend had damaged her front door, causing $600 in damage.

Oct. 29, 3:30 p.m.

Officers contacted five people sitting in a car parked in Southport, on South River Road north of Linden Road. During a "consent/probation search," police found "a small amount of marijuana in the center console."

None of the five had a medical marijuana card. No arrests were made, but the marijuana was seized and booked for destruction.

Oct. 30, 12:30 a.m.

A witness reported a shooting on the 2000-block of West Capitol Avenue:

"Unknown suspect in a vehicle shot one round at male who was on foot. Suspects had chased (victim) with vehicle prior to shooting at him." Police too an initial report but did not immediately locate the victim or suspects.

Oct. 30

Police responded to a possible "burglary in progress" on the 1900-block of Evergreen Avenue. They found a residence where the "door appeared to be pried open."

Oct. 30, 5:25 p.m.

A Sacramento man had reported his Specialized bike, worth about $160, stolen. Then, he saw if advertised for sale on the Craigslist internet classified ad site. He contacted the seller, a woman, and agreed to buy it for $600 when they met in an Ikea Court store parking lot. He then contacted West Sacramento police.

While in the local police lobby, the man again called the woman about the sale. She said she was in the store parking lot in a red Toyota Camry.

West Sacramento officers found the Camry, detaining a man and woman in it. The bike was in the back of the car, and its serial number matched the number on the stolen bike. The woman told police that the man with her had no knowledge of the bike.

The woman was arrested. Shortly after, probation officers searched her Jasmine Avenue home "and located an additional bicycle that had been stolen, as well as a white crystal-like substance" that later tested positive as methamphetamine.

Oct. 31, 1 a.m.

A gas station on the 2400-block of West Capitol reported a burglary, with about $7,500 in losses.

The idea of Go Figure is to arrive at the figures given at the bottom and right-hand columns of the diagram by following the arithmetic signs in the order they are given (that is, from left to right and top to bottom). Use only the numbers below the diagram to complete its blank squares and use each of the nine numbers only once.

To all heirs, beneficiaries, creditors, contingent creditors, and persons who may otherwise be interested in the will or estate, or both, of Siu Ying Wong aka Siu Y. Wong:

A Petition for Probate has been filed by Millie Bun in the Superior Court of California, County of Yolo.

The Petition for Probate requests that Millie Bun be appointed as personal representative to administer the estate of the decedent.

The petition requests authority to administer the estate under the Independent Administration of Estates Act. (This authority will allow the personal representative to take many actions without obtaining court approval. Before taking certain very important actions, however, the personal representative will be required to give notice to interested persons unless they have waived notice or consented to the proposed action.) The independent administration authority will be granted unless an interested person files an objection to the petition and shows good cause why the court should not grant the authority.

A hearing on the petition will be held in this court as follows: Dec. 11, 2014, at 9:00 a.m. in Dept. 2, Superior Court of California, County of Yolo, 725 Court St., Woodland CA 95695, Probate Court.

If you object to the granting of the petition, you should appear at the hearing and state your objections or file written objections with the court before the hearing. Your appearance may be in person or by your attorney.

If you are a creditor or a contingent creditor of the decedent, you must file your claim with the court and mail a copy to the personal representative appointed by the court within the later of either (1) four months from the date of first issuance of letters to a general personal representative, as defined in section 58(b) of the California Probate Code, or (2) 60 days from the date of mailing or personal delivery to you of a notice under section 9052 of the California Probate Code.

Other California statutes and legal authority may affect your rights as a creditor. You may want to consult with an attorney knowledgeable in California law.

You may examine the file kept by the court. If you are a person interested in the estate, you may file with the court a "Request for Special Notice" (form DE-154) of the filing of an inventory and appraisal of estate assets or of any petition or account as provided in Probate Code section 1250. A "Request for Special Notice" form is available from the court clerk.

GUEST OPINION:

County striving for top-quality emergency service

By Kristin Weivoda
Yolo County EMS Administrator

Have you ever needed an ambulance in Yolo County? Or ever wondered how the program works?

The program – emergency medical services, or EMS – is a type of emergency service dedicated to providing out-of-hospital acute medical care, transport to definitive care and other medical transport of patients with illnesses or injuries which prevent the patient from transporting themselves. In short, paramedic/ambulance service.

Each county in California is authorized to develop an EMS agency and a local EMS agency that oversees the delivery of such services within its geographical boundaries. Until last year, Yolo County was part of a multi-county EMS agency. On July 1, 2013, Yolo County implemented its own independent local EMS agency to meet and serve the needs of Yolo County residents, and thus, became one of 33 local EMS agencies in California.

In the last year, the Yolo County Emergency Services Agency (YEMSA) has created a system based on community needs for effective and efficient delivery of emergency medical services within Yolo County. To start with, the YEMSA established response time requirements for 9-1-1 and inter-facility transports. Since then, they monitored ambulance response times and worked closely with the county's provider, American Medical Response, to improve the services. Within our cities, ambulance response times have improved by 23%, with the average arrival of an ambulance fewer than five minutes following a call to 9-1-1.

The YEMSA also issued minimum required equipment and safety standards for all ambulances that operate within the county. Each ambulance has now been inspected and issued ambulance permits.

The local EMS agency is also responsible for training and standards of all paramedics and emergency medical technicians (EMTs) that work in the county. In Yolo County, we have approximately 200 accredited paramedics and 100 EMTs. Since the creation of the YEMSA, we have developed specific medical protocols and policies driven by patient outcomes and best practices. As one example, with the implementation of new protocols, following cardiac arrest when 9-1-1 is called and CPR is performed, we are getting pulses back 51% more often than before.

The Yolo County EMS Agency has worked diligently over the last year to increase the baseline standard of care in all facets of emergency medical services. Our goal is for this new standard of care to be fully integrated at all levels of emergency medical services, from the field (law, fire and ambulance) to the hospital, to ensure the quality of care that the residents of Yolo County receive is of the highest standard. We strive to implement the current best practices as determined by subject matter experts, as well as to be a leader in the arena of emergency medical services with strong metrics and expectations for patient outcomes. We believe we are well on our way to achieving that goal.

numbers. Unlike the white Snow Goose, the White-Fronted Goose is grayish brown with a speckled chest and a patch of light (usually white) feathers that borders the base of its bills. They have bright orange legs and feet, and their bills are orange as well. White-Fronted Geese populations are affected greatly by weather conditions in their Arctic nesting areas. If it stays cold for too long, or there's a sudden spring snow storm, the hatcheries can suffer great losses. Still, in 2010 their populations numbered between 600- and 700,000 individuals. These geese prefer a diet of grains, seeds, grasses and berries.

Buffleheads (Bucephala albeola) are small sea ducks with golden-yellow eyes. Females are grey and a white patch behind the eye, but the males are especially striking: black and white overall with a shiny iridescent purple and green head and large white blotch behind the eyes. When they puff out their head feathers, their "buffalo"-like heads take on a very distinct odd bulbous shape. Oddly enough, too, Buffleheads evolved over time into their smaller size so they could fit into their favorite nesting cavities: the nesting holes made by Northern Flickers. In ecological circles this ability to benefit from a host without affecting the host is called a "metabiotic" relationship. Buffleheads are "diving" ducks, and usually forage on whatever insects, aquatic plants and fish eggs they can find.

The Pintail (Anas acuta) is a species of duck with a very large range (including Europe, Asia, and the United States). These ducks are larger than the Buffleheads, but like the male Buffleheads the male Pintails are very handsome. Their chocolate-colored heads have a bright white strip running down them from the back of the head to the chest, and the male's central tail feathers are especially elongated (giving rise to its name "pintail"). The male Pintails also whistle -- which is almost flute-like -- while the drab-colored females have a harsh quack. Both males and females have gray legs and feet, and their bills are blue-grey. Like all dabbling ducks, pintails feed on plants and invertebrates in the water.

You can see many of these birds at your local wetland/wildlife preserves including the Cache Creek Nature Preserve, the Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area (between West Sacramento and Davis, with viewing from the Davis side), the Sacramento National Wildlife Preserve, and the Consumnes River Preserve. Bring your binoculars, spotting scopes and cameras and take lots of photos while the migration season lasts!

EDITOR'S NOTE: The Yolo Bypass Wildlife Area is located next to West Sacramento and is open during daylight hours every day except Christmas day.

From westbound I-80, take the "County Road 32A East Chiles Road" exit immediately west of the west end of the Yolo Causeway, turn right at stop sign and head south under freeway to west levee access.

For more information on the bypass, including maps, visit: www.dfg.ca.gov/lands/

RC girls tennis has perfect season

With an 8 to 1 win at Rio Linda last week, the River City High School girls tennis team finished its first season in the Tri County Conference (TCC) at a perfect 12 and 0. It's the first league championship for an all-girls RC team and the twentieth overall for the school's tennis program. "We've had lots of success with our coed teams over the past two decades, and the boys won a pair of championships in '83 and '84, but it's great to win this one and set a new standard for the girls teams in the future," said RC Coach Dave Brooks.

Against the host Knights, the Raiders were led by #1 singles player Julia Quenga's 6-0,6-0 win. Teammates Jasmine Benafghoul (#4), Carlie Blevins (#5), and Kay Rybikov (#6) also had "double-bagel" 6-0,6-0 wins in their singles matches. At #2, Beatrice Bui earned a hard-fought 6-3,6-3 victory, and Jessica Ngo cruised to a 6-0,6-1 win at #3.

RC also received doubles wins from the #1 team of Aloha Plugovaya and Anahi Escobar, 6-2,6-4 and the #3 duo of Mallory Snarr and Kari Tran, 6-1,6-0. For Tran, it was her first-ever varsity triumph.

Later in the week, the TCC Tournament was held at the Yuba City Racquet Club and the top two RC doubles teams both advanced to this week's Sac-Joaquin Section Tournament in Roseville. Seeded #1, Bui and Quenga defeated pairs from Woodland and Pioneer to advance to the final where their teammates, the second-seeded Benafghoul and Jessie Olsen, awaited them after downing teams from Rio Linda and Pioneer. In the championship match, Bui and Quenga prevailed 3-6,6-1,6-2.

CLIMATE CHANGE THREATENS ALL AMERICANS WE MUST WORK TOGETHER ON AN AMERICAN STRATEGY

Climate change is a national security issue. The longer we wait to act, the harder it will be to mitigate and respond to its impacts. U.S. leadership alone will not guarantee global cooperation. But if we fail to take action now, we will have little hope of influencing other countries to reduce their own contributions to climate change, or of forging a coordinated international response.

Here at home, we must cut our own carbon emissions, reduce our reliance on foreign oil, and develop and deploy clean, renewable energy sources that will generate economic growth. We must also help less developed countries adapt to the realities and consequences of a drastically changed climate. Doing so now will help avoid humanitarian disasters and political instability in the future that could ultimately threaten the security of the U.S. and our allies. But most importantly, we must transcend the political issues that divide us -- by party and by region -- to devise a unified American strategy that can endure and succeed.

We, the undersigned Republicans and Democrats, believe Congress working closely with the Administration must develop a clear, comprehensive, realistic and broadly bipartisan plan to address our role in the climate change crisis. WE MUST LEAD.
